Rohanee scores the Deadly for Female Sportsperson of the Year.

It was only three years ago that promising young basketballer Rohanee Cox was on the brink of early retirement after she suffered a career-threatening knee injury.

After a knee reconstruction and plenty of soul searching, Rohanee made a comeback to the hardwood floor after a two year hiatus and soon had her career back on track, starring for Townsville Fire in the WNBL and gaining selection with the Australian Opals.

While she has been nominated for a Deadly Award before, this was Rohanee's first Deadly win and a very well deserved one at that, after overcoming some significant obstacles to reignite her career.

While Rohanee was unable to make it on the night, she sent a pre-recorded thank you message from New Zealand, where she was playing with the Opals in the Oceania Championships. A cheerful Rohanee gave a big thanks to all those who voted for her and have supported her during her career.

The Deadly Awards are Australia's national Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander music, sport, entertainment and community awards. This issue of Deadly Vibe magazine is all about the 2007 Deadly Awards, when people from all over Australia get together to celebrate Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander achievement.

This year, WNBL Townsville Fire basketball star Rohanee Cox won the Deadly Award for Female Sportsperson of the Year.
